TICKETS:
£5. Tel. 01600 891 090. Unallocated seating - all tickets to be collected on the door.

Live from Wyastone Leys, in the heart of the Wye Valley, Louise Fryer introduces one of Schubert's most ambitious and revolutionary chamber works. Dedicated to 'nobody save those who find pleasure in it', the work bristles with its composer's idealistic spirit and his wish to match Beethoven's grandest achievements before him.

Elisabeth Leonskaja plays Schubert's last two Piano Sonatas, composed during the final year of his life. Neglected during the 19th Century it was only around the centennial of Schubert's death that these works begin to receive serious attention and critical acclaim. They have now come to be regarded as one of the highest points in the classical piano repertoire.

Schubert: Sonata in A, D959
Schubert: Sonata in B flat, D960

Sean Rafferty presents a special Schubert edition of BBC Radio 3's In Tune live from the Chapel at the Old Royal Naval College (ORNC) as The Spirit of Schubert - BBC Radio 3's celebration of Schubert draws to a close. With live performances and recorded music, guests include pianist Graham Johnson who brings together Robin Tritschler (tenor), Marcus Farnsworth (baritone) and Joy Farrall (clarinet) to perform some of Schubert's most enigmatic lieder.

There's also the chance to hear the stellar lineup of Imogen Cooper (piano), Katharine Gowers (violin), Krzysztof Chorzelski (viola), Adrian Brendel (cello) and Enno Senft (double bass) perform Piano Quintet in A, D667 "The Trout", the Trio in E flat, D897 "Notturmo" and the Sonata (Duo) in A, D574.
